

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the times."

Dr. Stephen Duncan, formerly of Natchez, Miss., died at his residence in Washington Square, New York, on Wednesday. He died from an attack of paralysis, at the ripe age of eighty years. The New York Express says: He was before the war the richest planter on the Mississippi, and the war swept away, of course, all his slave property, as well as all his other investments South, except the bare land.

A citizen of New York, who has his office in Wall street, has issued a confidential circular to the national banks proposing to come to Washington and lobby for them if they will contribute at the rate of one dollar in each thousand of their circulation for his expenses. If all the banks could be persuaded to join in such an arrangement it would yield him the snug little sum of three hundred thousand dollars.

The present number of the Sisters of Charity in the United States is 951, being a net increase of thirty during the past year. They have founded four new establishments during the same period, and they have now under their charge twenty-two hospitals, thirty-two orphan asylums, forty-nine parochial schools, four houses of charity, and one academy—making a total of 108 establishments.

Yesterday Judge Alexander, in the Circuit Court of Baltimore, granted an injunction against the Mayor and City Council and the Register of Baltimore city, restraining them from expending or contracting to expend the $20,000 lately voted by the city council to test the authority of the Legislature in altering the charter of the city.

In the case of Col. Montgomery, Gov. Fletcher's commander of militia, and who was charged with committing gross outrages under cover of the authority so vested in him, Judge Kaekel, of the U. S. District Court for Missouri, has decided that the Civil Rights Bill applies to negroes only, and that white men have no redress.

A document has been published by authority of the Catholic Bishop of Quebec, giving, at great length, the particulars of a miraculous cure effected last New Year's day, and the authenticity of which is certified by Dr. Lachaine. The scene of the miracle was the Convent, opposite Quebec.

A letter from an officer of the steamer Swatara, who writes from Lisbon, says that Surratt is very reticent, speaking in answer to questions, and then in monosyllables. He is still clad in the Zouave uniform. He seems to be in good health, and is entirely self-possessed.

A bill has passed the Massachusetts House of Representatives allowing the rate of interest to be fixed at seven per cent. by special contract, but where no agreement is made the legal rate of interest to remain at six per cent.

The ice on the Delaware river is so thick and compact that people were crossing it at Chester, sixteen miles below Philadelphia, and thousands of persons were skating and sleighing on the ice opposite Philadelphia.

The negro Bradley, who it is alleged has been inciting the colored people about Savannah to a resistance of the laws, was arrested yesterday by the United States authorities.

The City Council of Philadelphia has passed a resolution to invite Congress to visit that city, and personally inspect League Island, the site proposed for a navy yard.

The House of Delegates of Alabama has passed a bill to establish a system of public schools for whites and blacks, but making the schools separate.

The value of the estate of the late Edward Mott Robinson, of New Bedford, Mass., is sworn at four and a half millions.

Mr. Burton, U. S. Minister at Bogota, is to receive an apology for offensive language used by one of the President's generals.

West India advices state that the cholera is decreasing at St. Thomas, but the small-pox and yellow fever are raging.

General Sheridan and Colonel Croshy, of his staff, are coming on to Washington.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, yesterday, a resolution was adopted calling on the President for all correspondence between the State Department and ministers abroad relative to the policy of the government towards "the States lately in rebellion." At the expiration of the morning hour the consideration of the tariff bill was resumed, and several amendments agreed to. At the evening session the chair laid before the Senate Gen. Wilson's official report of the capture of Jefferson Davis. The bill regulating the duties of the clerk of the House of Representatives at the organization of Congress was taken up and discussed. The tariff bill was passed.

The House passed the Senate bill supplementary to the act to prevent smuggling, and the West Point Military Academy appropriation bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was then taken up, and the amendment striking Rome from the list of foreign missions of high grade was agreed to. The appropriation for the payment of salary of the minister to Portugal was stricken out. A bill was passed to transfer the bureau of Indian affairs to the War Department. The Senate's amendments to the bill authorizing the construction and extension of a lateral branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad were concurred in, as were also the amendments of the Senate to the bill to exempt the property of debtors in the District of Columbia from levy attachment or execution.

The Tariff Bill after a protracted discussion of upwards of two weeks, passed the Senate last night, after midnight, by a vote of 27 to 10. There are some features about this bill that make it peculiarly obnoxious to the West especially.

The Baltimore and Potomac railroad Bill, granting the right of way to Washington for a lateral branch of the road, passed the House of Representatives yesterday, awaits now only the President's signature to become a law. This secures a route to Baltimore shorter by two miles than the present one. It is freed from the capitation tax, and will enable passengers to go West, East, or North without change of cars at Baltimore.

An early effort is to be made in the House of Representatives to call up the bill providing for the creation of a sinking fund, and involving the immediate retirement of the national bank note circulation. This bill will occasion considerable debate.

Our Indian relations were again fully canvassed in the House yesterday.

There remain for the present session of Congress only twenty-six working days.—Nat. Int.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Warrenton Sentinel says: "From the success which attended the meeting, held at the Court House, on Monday last, we take pleasure in stating that the indications are most promising, that the people of Fauquier will give a hearty, prompt and general response to the appeal which is now being made, in behalf of the destitute white population, of Lexington and Richland Districts, South Carolina."

The quantity of cotton in port now at Norfolk, Va., for shipment to Europe and Northern ports, is stated at 17,000 bales. More than 1,000 bales arrived there on Saturday through the Chesapeake and Albemarle canal, and on Sunday about $30,000 worth.

It is said that some much more of whiskey is now in Fredericksburg, Va., awaiting the opening of navigation, to be sent forward. A good deal has been sent off by express, since the freeze.

The freeze, Monroe county, Register, announces the death of Mr. William Newton, one of the earliest settlers of the Greenbrier region, at the extreme age of ninety-seven years.

The Danville Register says that the farmers continue to complain of their inability to procure an adequate supply of labor for their farms. The negroes do not like plantation work.

EUROPE.

*LATEST BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Our advices from Europe by the cable are to yesterday. Members of the British Cabinet are said to express the opinion that, notwithstanding the threatening aspect of affairs in the East, peace will be preserved. Hereafter the search of the baggage of travellers between England and France is to be merely nominal. The mission of General Kaleris to the United States is thought to be a Russian intrigue to involve the American Government in the Eastern question. Despatches from the East state that a plot of the Cretan clergy against Mustafa Pacha, the Turkish commander in Candia, had been discovered.

Count Montholon has been decorated with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, and appointed Ambassador of France at Lisbon. It is reported that the Porte has determined to make concession to the Cretes, and will appoint a Christian Governor for Candia.

THE FREEDMEN'S BUREAU AND THE FREEDMEN.—The following Circular, dated "Bureau Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, office Superintendent Alexandria and Fairfax counties, January 21," and addressed "To the Freed people of Alexandria and Fairfax counties," has been issued:

"I have induced to make this appeal to the colored people of my district, for the purpose of explaining more fully the necessity of their accepting homes in the country, where their labor is needed, at such wages as will enable them to provide for themselves and families. Free labor is not wanted, and many are subjected to suffering and want. The great desire of this class is to keep their families together, which is all right in itself, provided they are able to do it by their own efforts. My personal observation convinces me this cannot be done here, to any extent, and families will be obliged to separate, just as white families are obliged to separate for the purpose of getting into business and supporting themselves. It is no worse for freed people to do this than others. Now, what I want to say is simply this: if labor cannot be found in one place, you must seek it in another. If this district cannot furnish work you must go beyond it. It cannot be found in Virginia, you must seek it in other States. Southern planters are calling for laboring men and women in every section South. You are just as free South as you would be North; the same flag protects you. The call is now urgent for hundreds of men and women. Men are anxious to obtain help, and have come here with recommendations endorsed by the best men in the country. There are great openings in Texas and Arkansas. Gentlemen are now here, ready to make contracts with any number, and I do not hesitate to say, these gentlemen are worthy, and merit your confidence. If you persist in rejecting such opportunities as these now offered, you cannot expect to be sustained, and the consequence to yourselves will be still greater suffering and destitution. Your own interest is involved in settling yourselves as soon as you possibly can. There is no time to be lost. Every day lessens your opportunity for securing places to labor. Planters and others need your labor now, to get ready for the Spring crops. If you wait and hesitate it will be too late. No man, white or colored, can have everything he wishes. If you cannot get what you want, you must take up with the best you can get. If you loiter and let these openings pass, you must suffer and starve."

The Bureau cannot continue the issue of rations and clothing to you after year after, as they have done. What will you do? How can you put off this matter when want is at your door? If you will not try to help yourselves, your friends cannot help you. The course you are taking will lessen the confidence of your friends, and after a while, they will become weary, and lose all interest in your welfare.

J. P. LEE, Superintendent.

VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.—The Senate, on Wednesday, had quite a lively debate on the bill to incorporate the Southern Association for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the Southern States, which consumed the greater part of the session. The bill was passed with two amendments which do not materially interfere with the plans of the gentleman who originated the association. The only other subject debated was that of increasing the allowance to jailors for feeding prisoners; the bill for that purpose was laid on the table just before adjournment.

Mr. Hannah introduced a resolution to inquire into the subject of the Senatorial tenure of office.

In the House, several resolutions of inquiry and petitions were presented and appropriately referred. The Committee on Public Property reported that they deemed it inexpedient to sell certain property and apply the proceeds to the liquidation of the State debt. Several bills were passed, among them one incorporating the Richmond and Peninsula Railroad, and a bill for processioning and settling the boundaries of lands in the Commonwealth. House bill to increase the pay of Judges of Circuit Courts, after considerable debate, dismissed. A bill to exempt certain property from distress or levy was ordered to a third reading. The bill making certain banks in this city public depositories, was amended, and after being discussed, ordered to engrossment.—Independent Engineer.

In the House, among the bills and petitions presented, were:

By Mr. Robertson.—A bill to amend an act to incorporate the Southern Protection Insurance company of Alexandria, passed January 20, 1854.

By Mr. English.—The petition of citizens of Alexandria in regard to a special police.

DIED.

On the 15th ultimo, at the residence of her son-in-law, Nathaniel Turner, in Louisa co., Mrs. SARAH L. DIGGES, in the 70th year of her age.

CASE OF REV. GEORGE T. WILLIAMS.—We noticed a few days ago, that Rev. George T. Williams, of Virginia, who was arrested in New York sometime ago, charged with picking the pocket of a lady in a stage, had, at length, been committed for trial. Justice Dodge, before whom the case was brought, delivered this opinion:

I consider the following facts as having been established: That on the second day of November last the complainant entered a Fifth avenue stage and seated herself at the extreme end of the left hand side; that the only persons on the same side were two ladies; one at the end by the door, the other seated midway. That the next person who entered that stage was the prisoner, George T. Williams, who took a seat immediately next to the complainant, and continued to occupy the same till the discovery of the alleged larceny; and no person at any time sat between the complainant and Mr. Williams. As the stage approached Twenty-second street, there was seen by a passenger seated opposite Mr. Williams, a movement under the dress of the complainant, and immediately afterwards the hand of the prisoner was withdrawn from her coat, and then arose and pulled the strap to stop the stage. The evidence further showed that the prisoner was called upon for the pocket-book, and denied that he had it; that he was taken hold of by some of the passengers, whereupon he struggled and succeeded in freeing himself from their grasp, and fell from the stage; that on the demand for the pocket-book being renewed he took it out of his pocket and handed it to the owner; that when arrested he stated to the officer that he found it on the floor of the stage, and when brought before the court that he found it on the seat. These facts are established by witnesses whose testimony was very clear, and who could have no occasion to misrepresent.

On the other hand, it appears that the prisoner has been for a number of years a reputable member of the sacred profession, the teachings of which are diametrically opposed to the commission of the crime alleged against him. The prisoner has borne, outwardly at least, a high character, and those who know him well state that they are unable to believe he could have thought of committing such less he have committed the offence charged. Detectives have also been introduced who consider that the cut in complainant's dress pocket was made by no "green hand" in the business. I have carefully weighed all these facts, and consider that, taken in connection with the law applicable thereto, I would not be justified in discharging the prisoner. The law marks out certain facts, which, when established, are considered as proving guilt. Such as denial of property afterwards found in the possession of the prisoner, and different statements made by prisoner or in explanation of suspicious circumstances. This case seems to be marked by a number of such proofs of guilt. High character is entitled to and has received in this case great consideration, but it cannot stand against clearly proven facts. I therefore decide that there is probable cause for supposing the crime charged has been committed by the prisoner, and that the papers must be sent to the grand jury to take such action as they may deem advisable in the premises.

Mr. Williams is held in $1,000 bail to answer at the General Sessions.

The speech of Horace Greeley, at the New York meeting in aid of the destitute in the South, was in pleasing contrast to the harangue of Henry Ward Beecher, which we have here-tofore noticed.

"The idea on which his speech was framed was, that the generous city of New York needs no other persuasion to charity than to be made fully acquainted with the distress that requires relief. Putting out of view all the political questions on which men differ, and every topic of remembrance which has any briar of irritation in it, he gave a clear and pertinent explanation of the present distressing condition of the South and of its causes, and pointed out the means of relief which have the best chance to be effective. Nothing could be more moderate, humane, and judicious than his kind and clumsy remarks, which can grate on no man's sensibilities, either in the North or the South, and which assume that minds of ordinary generosity need no other incentive to relieve their perishing countrymen than a faithful description of the facts."

ADVERTISING AND GRATITUDE.—A celebrated wholesale merchant in London, England, has presented the proprietors of the Telegraph with a printing press which cost $25,000, as a token of appreciation. In doing so he accompanied the gift by a letter, which said: "In your paper, by judicious advertising, I first built the foundation of a fortune—and in your paper, by judicious advertising, I have amassed the fortune which enables me to offer this testimony of regard and good will."

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the Stockholders of the Great Hunting Creek Bridge Co., at the City Hotel, Alexandria, Va., on TUESDAY, the 12th day of February, 1854, at 12 o'clock m. A full attendance of the stockholders is desired.
